ONLY ONE BILL FAILS

The River and Harbor Measure Die in the Senate.

FOUR ITEMS HELD UP

Storage Reservoirs in Wyoming and South Dakota and Brazos River Appropriations Objected to. St. Louis Appropriation.

Washington, March 4.—All the appropriation bills were passed and signed by President McKinley just before the Fifty-sixth congress went out of existence, except the river and harbor appropriation bill, it having failed in the senate. Four items blocked its passage, three appropriations for storage reservoirs in Wyoming and South Dakota and money to improve the Brazos river in Texas.

The senate of the Fifty-seventh congress was called to order by Vice President Roosevelt just after noon today, the proclamation of the president, calling the senate into extraordinary session was read by the clerk. At the conclusion of its reading the vice president requested the new senators to present themselves at the desk to take the oath of office. The clerk called the names of the senators in groups of four and as they advanced to left of the vice president's desk to take the oath they were greeted with cordial applause from the galleries. A notable reception was accorded Mr. Bailey of Texas by his colleagues of the house.

The House.

Washington, March 4.—The most important action taken by the house after midnight aside from that on appropriations bills was the defeat of the resolution reported by the rules committee for designation of a subcommittee of insular affairs committee of the house to visit Puerto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines and make reports on the conditions existing in those islands. The resolution suffered defeat by a vote of 132 to 84.

The house adjourned sine die at noon. Its closing hours were passed largely in recess waiting for adjournment. A resolution of thanks to Speaker Henderson for an impartial and able administration office was offered by Representative Richardson, the minority leader, and unanimously adopted.

Washington, March 4.—The house, which is still in the legislative day of Friday worked Sunday afternoon, night and into the early morning to dispose of the conference reports. Everybody was at high tension and it only required a spark to create a scene. The galleries were packed to the doors with inaugural crowds.

There was a big fight during the afternoon in the senate amendment to the sundry civil bill which was the St. Louis and other exposition bills took up great part of the time. Mr. Cannon made a great fight and made a motion to concur, but defeat met him by a vote of 76 to 139.

Throughout Saturday the house was in the throes of the closing hour of the session, with many measures clamoring for attention and with crowded galleries looking down on the weary legislators. Work began at 9 a. m. and proceeded until 5 in the afternoon, when a recess was taken until 9:30 p. m. to permit conference reports to be framed. Under suspension of the rules a number of important bills were passed, including those for a national standardizing bureau, for conferring bronze medals on the enlisted men of the navy and marine corps for distinguished heroism, to amend the Chinese exclusion laws and what is known as the "omnibus public building bill," enlarging the appropriation for some 49 public buildings. The legislative appropriation bill was also finally disposed of and many conferences were advanced to a stage which gave promise that there would be no failure of important legislation.

The Senate.

Washington, March 4.—From 10:30 o'clock last night the senate remained in continuous session and worked to clear up the necessary legislation which had to reach the president for his signature before adjournment. The most interesting feature of the session was the action upon the sundry civil appropriation bill, when early this morning the senate receded from the amendment providing for three expositions, giving $5,000,000 to St. Louis, $500,000 to Buffalo and $250,000 to Charleston, S. C. Without division the motion to recede was agreed to. It was the last remaining item in the bill in disagreement and it meant that all danger of an extra session was over.

The action of the senate on the sundry civil bill was followed by the house receding from the Charleston amendment to the St. Louis Exposition bill which had passed the house as separate amendment. This action passed the bill appropriating $5,000,000 for St. Louis.

Throughout the night there was a determined effort to defeat the river and harbor bill, led by Mr. Carter of Montana. When the first conference report was presented all but items for three storage reservoirs in Wyoming and South Dakota and the Brazos river (Texas) appropriation of $400,000 had been adjusted. After Senator Carter had talked four hours on the bill it was sent back to conference. Before it was again brought in other matters had been cleared away and the fight began in earnest. Upon the second report Nelson announced that unless the senate receded the bill would fail and he moved the senate recede. At 6:35 Mr. Carter resumed his speech.

The senate was unable to agree and refused to recede, leaving the bill pending when the Fifty-sixth congress went out of existence.

As soon as Vice President Roosevelt had taken the oath of office he swore in the senators for the Forty-seventh congress.

At noon Mr. Jones of Arkansas moved a resolution of thanks to President Frye for his impartial and courteous course as presiding officer. Mr. Frye acknowledged the compliment in a few words. The senate clock was moved for these formalities. The vice president elect was sworn in after 12 o'clock.

Washington, March 4.—The first Sunday session of the Fifty-sixth congress was held yesterday. It will not be counted on as a Sunday session, but as continuation of the Saturday session.

After a spirited fight both in conference and on the floor of the senate, the final conference report on the naval appropriation bill was adopted, the senate receding from the contested amendment authorizing the construction of three additional Holland submarine torpedo boats.

The conference report on the general deficiency and postoffice appropriation bills was agreed to.

The last of the big supply bills of the government—the general deficiency measure—was passed by the senate Saturday, thus clearing the decks for the final adjournment of congress.

In addition to the general deficiency bill the measure increasing the cost of public buildings in 32 states, known as the omnibus bill, was passed. The increases aggregate more than $2,000,000.

In the course of Saturday's session Mr. Clay of Georgia delivered a prepared speech in favor of the construction by this government of the Nicaragua canal.

The night session was devoted largely to listening to a speech from Mr. Chandler urging an investigation of the election of Hon. W. A. Clarke as a member from Montana. The galleries were crowded and many senators present were in full dress.

President Signs Army Bill.

Washington, March 4.—The president Saturday night signed the army bill, which contains the provisions relating to the relations of the United States with Cuba and the government of the Philippines.

Abilene Gets an Appropriation.

Washington, March 2.—The omnibus public buildings bill passed by both houses carried the following increases among others: Abilene, Tex., $75,000 to $100,000; Hot Springs, Ark., $75,000 to $100,000.

Highborn Retires.

Washington, March 4.—Admiral Highborn, chief naval constructor, and Pay Inspector Colby retired today.

Ex-Chief Justice Martin Dead.

Atchison, Kas., March 4.—David Martin, ex-Chief Justice of the Kansas supreme court, and a law lecturer at the state university, died at his home here. He died of pneumonia and a complication of heart disease. Judge Martin had been ailing three months, but was able to be around until the middle of February, returning from Lawrence at that time, where he lectured before the law class of the university.

Texas Legislature.

Austin, March 4.—The house this morning set as a special order for Wednesday the Houston and Texas Central consolidation bill. The balance of the morning session was devoted to the consideration of the quarantine bill, the row being over whether the state shall pay all costs in quarantine matters or whether the county shall spare its parts of the tax.

Lady Defeats Pillsbury.

Memphis, March 4.—Harry W. Pillsbury, the chess champion, was defeated here Saturday by Miss Rosa Jefferson, a young lady expert of this city. Pillsbury gave his customary exhibition of playing 16 players blindfolded and simultaneously. He had expected an easy contest from all, but Miss Jefferson called mate and Pillsbury bowed to defeat.

Lawson Wants a Race.

Boston, March 4.—Thomas W. Lawson, owner of the champion trotting gelding Boralma, offers to enter the horse in a match race with Crescens, Charlie Herr and The Abbott, for stakes of $10,000 each, the association holding the race to add $20,000, the first horse to take $40,000, the second $15,000 and the third $5000.

Snake Band Sentenced.

Muskogee, I. T., March 4.—The winding up of the Snake trouble came Saturday in the United States court. Judge Thomas sentenced Chitto Harjo, known as Crazy Snake, and his band to eight years in the penitentiary and a fine of $250 each, but suspended sentence on promise of good behavior.

Celeste, a small town in North Texas, will build a cotton mill of 3500 spindles capacity and have it ready for operation by Sept. 1.

Some people want Hogg to run for governor again because his amendments were defeated. Well, he won't, if he is as wise as he used to be.

The young men of Calvert have organized an athletic association and are raising money to equip a gymnasium. Permission will be sought to place their hall in the city park. The promoters are meeting with much encouragement from the citizens generally, who desire to see the project succeed.

In return for the use of gravel from twenty acres of land, the C. W. & B. V. railroad has 150 teams at work constructing an artificial lake covering fifteen acres on the property of Oltorf Bros., one mile from Marlin. A park will surround the lake which will be improved and managed as a private enterprise by Oltorf Bros.

At Fort Worth George Gould said: "We are delighted with our trip through Texas. The Brazos Valley country is an eye-opener. We want to get into that section and we do not expect to lose much time about it, either. We hope to have trains over the I & G. N. running into Waco by next August. We intend to come to Fort Worth. There will be no delay in the matter."

The press dispatches plainly stated that the unprecedented splendor of McKinley's second inauguration at Washington yesterday was planned to mark the commencement of the empire idea or regime. When we look back to that president who, unattended, rode an old gray horse to take the oath of office, we are aware that the gray horse method would now be incongruous, but it is no less painful to realize that the love of wealth and power as the incentive for shaping the course of those in authority has supplanted the patriotism and love of human liberty wherever the sun shines upon God's creatures, that inspired the founders of this government.

EMMEL'S PRESCRIPTION PHARMACY.

A NEW EXPLOSIVE.

The Most Powerful of Any Yet Experimented With by the Government.

New York, March 4.—Tests are being made at Sandy Hook proving grounds with a new explosive of great power. Ordnance officials say highly satisfactory results have been obtained. Great secrecy has been observed in conducting the tests and the war department has determined that nothing shall be published regarding the experiments. It has been learned that the new explosive is the invention of an American and that it has not yet been named.

This removes it from the class of explosives which have been named and described and marks it as something entirely new. A shell loaded with the new explosive penetrated seven inches of armor and then burst destructively. With most of explosives the heat generated by the shell's impact has caused it to explode before penetrating the armor. Hence, if launched against the side of a battleship a shell would prove far less effective than if it penetrated the armor before exploding.

As a test of the power of the new explosive a steel shell was loaded with it, buried many feet in Sandy Hook and a pile of timber placed on top. The same kind of shell was loaded with an equal amount of other explosives was not burst by the explosion. With the new compound, however, the shell was burst into pieces and a sheet of flame shot up through the sand and timber many yards in height. It was impossible to learn any more of the explosive from those who were familiar with the result of the test. Ordnance officials speak guardedly of the matter on account of the strict order of the war department that all information of tests at Sandy Hook shall come from department headquarters at Washington.

It is known, however, that they consider the results as surpassing those obtained with any other explosive yet tried. Much satisfaction is felt that the inventor of the compound is an American.

CONTRACT REVOKED.

Clark & Co. Lose the Construction of Buffalo Bayou Ship Canal.

Galveston, March 4.—The war department has revoked the extension of time granted Charles Clark & Co., of Galveston, to construct the Buffalo bayou ship channel. The contract was awarded to Clark & Co. last June for $342,330, to build a channel 75 feet wide and 18 feet deep from Galveston bay to Morgan's Cut near Laport, a distance of 28 miles. The terms of the contract called for $75,000 worth of dredging, to be finished March 1, this year. The contractors claim to have been delayed by the storm, and ask for six months' extension of time to secure the requisite amount of dredging.

The request was granted a few days ago and then revoked. Under the conditions presented in these government contracts, when a contractor forfeits his contract he is barred from ever receiving another contract from the government. The dredging has not been started and the secretary of war has declared the contract forfeited. Clark & Co. virtually control the deep water dredging on the gulf and have several large government contracts under way at Atsugi Pass, Brazos river and Brazos Santiago. The Buffalo bayou project will cost $1,500,000 from Galveston to Houston, and the government will call for new contracts.

Fatal Fire at Marion.

Marion, Ind., March 4.—A natural gas explosion followed by fire, completely destroyed the Gas City Pottery works here. A falling wall killed John Gurron, a young Englishman. Albert Rothhouse, a druggist and member of the city council, was fatally injured. William Parish, John Ross and George Ellsworth were seriously injured. D. C. Cox, the proprietor of the factory, went in the office to secure his books and was caught under a falling wall and the roof. By a superhuman effort he extricated himself and ran out of the burning building through the flames and fell unconscious in the open air. He was carried home, and it is thought he will recover. The property loss is $150,000, with $5000 insurance.

Testing the Curtis Law.

Vinita, I. T., March 4.—Marion Holderman was arrested and brought here by Deputy United States Marshal Paden Tolbert on a charge of holding too much land in the Cherokee Nation. Mr. Holderman was indicted by the recent grand jury upon 82 separate counts for violating the provisions of the act of congress approved June 28, 1898, known as the Curtis law, which provides a penalty for excessive land holdings in the Cherokee Nation.

James Beatty of Talala, I. T., has also been arrested on the same charges, and these two cases will make a test trial of the constitutionality of the law. Holderman holds 6000 acres of land.

Aged Farmer Killed Himself.

Festus, Mo., March 4.—Peter Guthe, an old and respected citizen of this place, killed himself by taking carbolic acid. He had a looking-glass and a revolver laying by his side to use in case the acid failed. His sons held a mortgage on his home and had foreclosed. It is supposed that brooding over his loss caused him to take his life. He was about 70 years old and leaves a wife and large family.

Convict Killed While Escaping.

Little Rock, March 4.—Charles E. Scarborough, a white man, was killed at the convict camp near England by Warden Frank Barton, while attempting to escape. A coroner's inquest was held and Barton exonerated. Scarborough was about 25 years old.

Sudden Death of Mr. T. B. Collins.

At 6 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. T. B. Collins dropped dead at his home at old Boonville. His sudden death was a great shock to the people of this community, among whom he has resided so long and by whom he was most highly esteemed. When Mr. Collins arose yesterday morning he was apparently enjoying his usual good health and went out to the lot to attend to the stock as was his custom. Not returning for breakfast, his family instituted a search for him and found he had fallen dead as above indicated.

Mr. Collins' age was 63 years and 23 days, and he was born in Giles county, Tenn. He came to Texas in 1842 and was one of the early settlers in this county. He was twice married, the last time in December, 1880. Six children were born of his first marriage, five of whom are living. One of them, Mrs. John M. Caldwell, is a resident of this city.

Mrs. Collins, with one child, Miss Irma, remain of a family of four children. He also leaves other relatives. Mr. Collins was a member of the Methodist church, of the A. O. U. W. lodge, and of Camp J. B. Robertson, U. C. V. He recently sold his home in Bryan and moved to Boonville.

The funeral will be conducted from the family home at 4 o'clock this afternoon, under the auspices of the A. O. U. W. lodge, with the members of Camp J. B. Robertson in attendance. Interment at Boonville cemetery.

Mr. Collins was a good man of generous impulses, and a good citizen who will be sadly missed from the community, especially by those old friends whose number grows sadly less year by year, and who knew him by the familiar name of Bent Collins. The sympathy of the Eagle is extended to the family and friends.

WEST VIRGINIA'S OIL QUEEN.

Mrs. Ibrag Quit the Shoe Business, and Her Income is $7,000 a Week.

West Virginia oil developments of the past few weeks have produced what the operators are pleased to call an "oil queen." She is Mrs. Mary Ibrag, formerly of Sistersville, now living in the Tyler county field, where her venturesome spirit and good luck netted her an oil income that has been averaging about $7,000 a week for a month, says a Wheeling dispatch to the New York Evening Sun. Mrs. Ibrag was formerly engaged in the shoe business at Sistersville, and it was while living in that busy town of oil and oil machinations that she developed the speculative fever.

Her shoe business was not very successful, and she began to dabble in oil. Several small ventures are said to have netted her enough to make her confident and willing to undertake the development of the most uncertain "wildcat" territory in the state. She secured control of a large slice of new territory in the upper end of Tyler county, and, regardless of the head shakes and discouraging words of her friends, she went into the field for active operations. Several months ago she contracted for the drilling of a well on her land. A series of mishaps prevented the completion of the job until Dec. 4, when the drill touched a pocket of oil, and a small gusher resulted. The flow was pretty heavy at first, but has since settled down to about 250 barrels a day, with every prospect that the output will be maintained.

The strike is the opening wedge in territory that will prove to be very valuable. Mrs. Ibrag is preparing to put down other wells just as soon as rigging can be hauled to her property. The woman speculator has located several spots upon which her agents will begin drilling as soon as possible. She has purchased a handsome home at Parkersburg and will likely direct her interests from that point.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Speech in Full Delivered by President McKinley Today.

HIS ACTS REVIEWED.

He Compares the Conditions of 1896 to the Present, Tells of the Spanish War and Obligations to Cubans and Filipinos.

Washington, March 4.—William McKinley of Ohio today was inducted into the presidential office, being the eighth in the illustrious line of presidents of the United States thus honored by the American people with a second term. Simultaneously, Theodore Roosevelt of New York, became vice president of the United States. The ceremony that marked this second assumption by President McKinley of the cares of state was impressive and full of suggestion of the development of the republic during the past four years.

The parade that followed President McKinley on his return from the capitol to the White House passed in review before him, was different from all its predecessors in the majestic predominance of the military feature. The civil contingent was quite up to the average in numbers, but the soldiers outnumbered the civilians in line by more than 3 to 1, and the navy was represented more numerously than before.

For the first time in a quarter of a century the president rode from the White House to the capitol without a successor beside him in his carriage. Grant was the last of the presidents of the United States up to this time to occupy a similar position. President McKinley had for his companions in his carriage members of the committee who were specially chosen by congress to take charge of the inauguration, headed by Senator Hanna.

Fourteen states were represented by their governors, most of them accompanied by members of their staffs.

Washington surpassed herself in quantity and quality of its street decoration. Scarcely a house front from the foot of the capitol to the point of a missile at the apex end of Pennsylvania avenue could be seen for the red, white and blue.

The whole route of the parade was a gorgeously patriotic sight. But it was at the court of honor, constructed on Pennsylvania avenue between Fifteenth and Seventeenth streets, that the decorators fairly surpassed in effectiveness any decoration ever before seen here.

The inaugural address of President McKinley was as follows:

My fellow citizens—When we assembled here on the fourth of March, 1897, there was great anxiety with regard to our currency and credit. None exists now. Then our treasury receipts were inadequate to meet the current obligations of the government. Now they are sufficient for all public needs and we have a surplus instead of a deficit. Then I felt constrained to convene the congress in extraordinary session to devise revenues to pay the ordinary expenses of the government. Now I have the satisfaction to announce that the congress just closed has reduced taxation in the sum of $41,000,000. Then there was deep solicitude because of the long depression in our manufacturing, mining, agricultural and mechanical industries and the consequent distress of our laboring population. Now every avenue of production is crowded with activity, labor is well employed and American products find good markets at home and abroad. Our diversified productions, however, are increasing in such unprecedented volume as to diminish us of the necessity of still further enlarging our foreign markets by broader commercial relations. For this purpose reciprocal trade arrangements with other nations should in liberal spirit be carefully cultivated and promoted.

The national verdict of 1896 has for the most part been executed. What remains unfulfilled is a continuing obligation resting with undiminished force upon the executive and the congress. But fortunate as our condition is, its performance can only be assured by sound business methods and strict economy in national administration and execution. We should not permit our great prosperity to lead us to reckless ventures in business or profligacy in public expenditures. While the congress determines the objects and the sum of appropriations the officials of the executive departments are responsible for honest and faithful disbursements and it should be their constant care to avoid waste and extravagance.

Honesty, capacity and industry are nowhere more indispensable than in public employment. There should be fundamental requisites to original appointment and the surest guarantee against removal.

Four years ago we stood on the brink of war without the people knowing it and without any preparation or effort at preparation for the impending peril. I did all that in honor could be done to avert the war, but without avail. It became inevitable and the congress at its first regular session without party division provided money in anticipation of the conflict. It came. The result was signally favorable to American arms and in the highest degree honorable to the government. It imposes upon us obligations from which we cannot escape and from which it would be dishonorable to seek to escape. We are now at peace with the world and it is my fervent prayer that if the difficulties arise between us and other powers they may be settled by peaceful arbitration and that hereafter we may be spared the horrors of war.

Entrusted by the people for a second time with the office of president, I enter upon its administration appreciating the great responsibilities which attach to this renewed honor and commission promising undivided attention on my part to their faithful discharge and reverently invoking for my guidance the direction and favor of Almighty God. I should shrink from the duties this day assumed if I did not feel that in their performance I should have the cooperation of the wise and patriotic men of all parties. It encourages me for the great task which I now undertake to believe that those who voluntarily committed to me the trust imposed upon the chief executive of the republic will give me the generous support to my duties to preserve, and defend the constitution of the United States, and to the laws that will be fully executed. The national purpose is indicated through a national election. It is the constitutional method of ascertaining the public will. When once, it is registered it is a law to us all and faithful observance should follow its decrees.

Strong hearts and helpful hands are needed, and fortunately we have them in every part of our beloved country. We are reunited. Sectionalism has disappeared. Divisions on public questions can no longer be traced by the war maps of 1861. These old difficulties less and less disturb the judgment. Existing problems demand the thought and quicken the conscience of the country and the responsibility for their presence as well as for their righteous settlement rests upon us all—no more upon me than upon you. There are some national questions in the solution of which patriotism should exclude partisanship. Magnifying our difficulties will not take them off our hands nor facilitate their adjustment. Distrust of the capacity, integrity and high purposes of the American people will not be an inspiring theme for future political contests. Dark pictures and gloomy forebodings are worse than useless. These only becloud, they do not point to the way of safety and honor. "Hope maketh not ashamed." The prophets of evil were not the builders of the republic, nor in its crisis have they served it. The faith of the fathers a mighty force in its creation, and the faith of their descendants have wrought its progress. They are obstructionists who despair and who would destroy confidence in the ability of our people to solve wisely and for civilization the mighty problems resting upon them.

The American people entrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go and they reject as mistaken and unworthy the doctrine that we lose our own liberties by securing the enduring foundations of liberty to others. Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension and our sense of justice will not abate under tropic seas. As heretofore, so hereafter, will the nation demonstrate its fitness to administer any new estate which events devolve upon it, and in the fear of God "will take occasion by the hand and make the bounds of freedom wider yet." If there are those among us who would make our way more difficult we must not be disheartened, but the more earnestly dedicate ourselves to the task we have rightly entered. The path of progress is seldom smooth. New things are often found hard to do. Our fathers found them so. We find them so. They are inconvenient. They cost us something but are we not better for the effort and sacrifice and are not those we serve lifted up and blessed?

We will be consoled, too with the fact that opposition has confronted every onward movement of the republic from its opening hour until now but without success. The republic has marched on and on and its every step has exalted freedom and humanity. We are undergoing the same ordeal as did our predecessors nearly a century ago. We are following the course they blazed. They triumphed. Will their successors falter and plead organic impotency in the nation? Surely after 125 years of mankind we should now surrender our equality with other powers on matters fundamental and essential to nationality. With no such purpose was the nation created. In no such spirit has it developed its full and independent sovereignty. We adhere to the principles of equality and by no act of ours will we assign to ourselves a subordinate rank in the family of nations.

My fellow citizens, the public events of the past four years have gone into history. They are too near to justify recital. Some of them were unforeseen, many of them momentous and far reaching in their consequences to ourselves and our relations with the rest of the world. The part which the United States bore so honorably in the thrilling scenes in China, while new to American life has been in harmony with its true spirit and best traditions and in dealing with the results of its policy will be that of moderation and fairness.

We face at this moment a most important question that of the future relations of the United States and Cuba. With our neighbors we must remain close friends. The declaration of the purposes of this government in the resolution of April 12, 1898, must be kept.

The convention of Cuba elected by the people must frame a constitution. The transfer of American control to the new government is of such great importance involving an obligation resulting from other intervention and treaty of peace that I am glad to be advised by the recent act of congress of the policy which the legislative branch of the government deems essential to the best interests of Cuba and the United States. The principles which led to our intervention require that the fundamental law upon which the new government rests should be adapted to secure a government capable of performing the duties and discharging the functions of a separate nation, of observing its individual obligations of protecting life and property, insuring order, safety and liberty and conforming to the established and historical policy of the United States in its relation to Cuba.

The peace which we pledged to the Cuban people must carry with it the guarantee of permanence. We become sponsors for the pacification of the island, we remain accountable to the Cubans no less than to our own country and people for the reconstruction of Cuba as a free commonwealth and abiding foundations of right, justice, liberty and assured order. Our enfranchisement of the people will not be completed until free Cuba shall be a reality, not a name, a perfect entity, not a hasty experiment bearing within itself the element of failure.

Congress has added the sanitation of its authority to the powers already possessed and exercised by the executive and the constitution, thereby leaving with the executive the responsibility for the government of the Philippines shall continue the efforts already begun until order is restored throughout the islands and in the formation of local governments the full cooperation of the people has already been invited and when established will encourage the people to administer them. The settled purpose long ago prevailed to afford the inhabitants of the islands selfgovernment as fast as they were ready for it would be pursued with earnestness and fidelity. Already something has been accomplished in this direction. The government's representatives, civil and military, are doing faithful and noble work in their mission of emancipation and merit the approval and support of their countrymen. The most liberal terms of amnesty have already been communicated to the insurgents and the way is still open for those who have raised their arms against the government for honorable submission to its authority. Our countrymen should not be deceived. We are not waging war against the inhabitants of the Philippines. A portion of them are making war against the United States.

While the treaty of peace with Spain was ratified on Feb. 1, 1899, the ratifications were exchanged nearly two years ago, the congress had indicated no form of government for the Philippine island. It has, however, provided an army to enable the executive to suppress insurrection, restore peace give sovereignty to the inhabitants and establish the authority of the United States throughout the archipelago. It has authorized the native troops as auxiliary to the regular forces. It has been advised from time to time of the acts of the military and naval officers in the Philippine islands, of my action in appointing civil commissions for the instructions with which they were charged, of their duties and powers, of their recommendations and of the several acts under which the commission together with the very complete general information they have submitted. These reports fully set forth the conditions past and present in the islands and the instructions clearly show the principles which will guide the executive until the congress shall as it is required to do by the treaty, determine the civil rights and political status of the inhabitants welcome it as a guarantee of order and security of life, property, liberty, freedom of conscience and the pursuit of happiness. To them the full protection will be given. They shall not be abandoned. We will not leave the destiny of the loyal millions of the islands to disloyal thousands who are in rebellion against the United States. Order under civil institutions will come as soon as those who now break the peace shall keep it. Force will not be needed or used when those who make war against us shall make it no more. May it end without further bloodshed, and there be ushered in the reign of peace to be made permanent by a government of liberty under the law.

John R. Beecroft Dead.

New York, March 4.—John R. Beecroft, superintendent of the Century company, is dead at Mount Vernon. He died in the Polytechnic hospital from the shock following an operation for a broken leg due to an accident. He became identified with the Century about 25 years ago, and had since been the superintendent of its various publications. He was well known as a hymnologist, having compiled a number of works, the most prominent of which is his "In Excelsis," used extensively in the protestant churches throughout the country.

Women Who Work

Nine out of ten women are afflicted with some of the common ailments known as female diseases. Among women whose employment requires them to stand on their feet or sit in the same position all day, not one in twenty-five escape these troubles. The average feminine constitution cannot, unaided, withstand the strain to which steady, trying work subjects them. The organs of womanhood are so delicate and finely adjusted that the inevitable result of constant standing, lifting, stooping or straining is displacement of vital parts. The disorder is usually slight at first, but soon develops into irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhoea or falling of the womb. Wine of Cardui is the right remedy for female weakness. As such it is offered to you. Wine of Cardui will not perform miracles, but it will, if taken as directed, insure painless and regular operation of the menstrual function. It will drive out every trace of leucorrhoea, and will so strengthen the ligaments that falling of the womb will be an impossibility. Don't you think it would pay you to try a medicine with such a record as that? You can get a $1 bottle of Wine of Cardui at any drug store and use it in the privacy of your home.

Townsend, Ga., May 18, 1899.

I have been in bad health with falling of the womb, weak back, nervousness and heart palpitation. At monthly periods I would be in bed suffering great pain. Later I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Theodor's Black-Draught, and they have brought me wonderful relief. I have no pain, and do not stop work at the monthly period.
